

It's disgraceful that a corporation has the ability to not only use it's power to promote a questionable "documentary" right before the election, but to threaten the well-being of its employees who must compromise their integrity to put food on the table.

Please stop them.